City says it will not get involved in BIA leadership dispute

White Rock—White Rock Mayor Catherine Ferguson reiterated today that the ongoing dispute over the directorship of the White Rock Business Improvement Association (BIA) must be sorted out and resolved between the two parties and the City will not get involved.

“The City will remain neutral in the matter,” said Ferguson. “Our chief concern is what implications the dispute may have on Bylaw 1764 and we are seeking a legal opinion on that.”

Under Bylaw 1764, the City collects a levy from business owners and distributes it to the BIA for the implementation of its annual business promotion plan.
